Enhance YOUR PASSOVER Celebration

WITH THESE THREE CLASSICS FROM OU PRESS

OU Press brings you unparalleled works of wisdom and spirituality from our greatest rabbinic leaders. This year, let Rabbi Joseph B. Soloveitchik and Rabbi Norman Lamm join you in your home and enrich your Yom Tov.

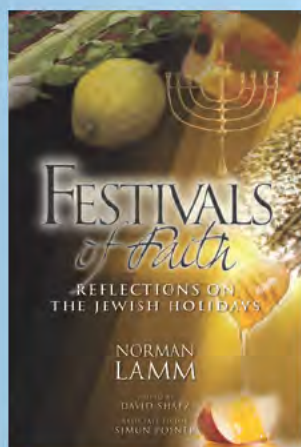

THE SEDER NIGHT: AN EXALTED EVENING RABBI JOSEPH B. SOLOVEITCHIK Edited by Rabbi Menachem Genack

A Haggadah with a commentary which displays the soaring intellect and profound sensitivity of the “Rav,” Rabbi Joseph B. Soloveitchik. An Exalted Evening offers a glimpse into the originality and brilliance of the Rav’s teachings as he uncovers new dimensions of meaning and significance in the Haggadah.

THE ROYAL TABLE: A PASSOVER HAGGADAH RABBI NORMAN LAMM Compiled and edited by Dr. Joel B. Wolowelsky

A contemporary commentary on the Haggadah by the gifted rabbinic leader and master orator who has long been a source of guidance and inspiration for the Jewish community. Rabbi Lamm’s insights combine his Talmudic erudition with his renowned eloquence, creating a commentary that is both intellectually stimulating and emotionally rewarding.

FESTIVALS OF FAITH REFLECTIONS ON THE JEWISH HOLIDAYS RABBI NORMAN LAMM Edited by Dr. David Shatz

Passover, together with all the other holidays, takes on new meaning in the hands of this master of Jewish thought and tradition. Festivals of Faith is a collection of Rabbi Lamm’s thoughts on the Jewish holidays culled principally from his sermons and divrei Torah delivered while he was Rabbi of The Jewish Center. Individually, each discourse is a gem, and together they constitute a veritable treasure trove of profound insights and inspiring teachings.

About OU Kosher

BY RABBI AHARON BRUN-KESTLER

FOR MILLIONS of consumers, the federally and internationally protected  certification mark is synonymous with kosher certification. In fact, this trusted symbol appears on over 60% of all kosher certified items on store shelves. In total, OU Kosher certifies in excess of 600,000 consumer and industrial products manufactured at more than 7,500 facilities in over 80 countries around the world.

From Alaska to Zimbabwe, there are few places OU Kosher has not gone or will not go to service its clients. The OU's global reach has enabled kosher to go mainstream throughout the world's food and food-related industries. As the world's premier kosher certifying agency, the OU must have the expertise to respond to manufacturers' and consumers' needs in a holistic way. That means the coordinated efforts of hundreds of people worldwide possessing a wide variety of expertise and abilities—applying age old questions to the newest technologies; understanding, for example, how the words of the Talmud and the Shulchan Aruch apply to a modern fermentation process or just how one can kasher a five-storey spray drying tower.

At the center of this effort is the OU Kosher World Headquarters in New York.

With over 50 Rabbinic Coordinators (RCs / Kosher Account Executives), each expert in several industries, OU Kosher has a level of expertise and resources unmatched by any other kosher agency. No less impressive is the in-house professional support structure guaranteeing that the OU can always provide the most current and accurate data and industry leading service excellence. OU Kosher maintains the world's largest database with hundreds of thousands of entries—chemical compounds, intermediary ingredients, products sorted by brand and type—all at the kosher professionals' fingertips. The state-of-the-art OU Direct system provides OU certified companies—free of charge—real-time access to kosher certification letters, ingredient and product schedules, and certification status.

Additionally, a company's products are listed on the Universal Kosher Database, a virtual marketplace where clients can source tens of thousands of pre-approved kosher items. The OU staffs' expertise in Jewish Law and food technology ensures that questions are answered in a timely manner. No other kosher agency in the world has such a comprehensive infrastructure, and it is why all others are measured against the OU.

The real unsung heroes of OU Kosher are the hundreds of Rabbinic Field Representatives (RFRs) who travel the world monitoring the OU's kosher programs on-site. Traveling to far-off places, and sometimes spending Shabbat and holidays away from home and family, these dedicated professionals criss-cross the globe—auditing certified plants, evaluating new facilities, and performing the nuts and bolts work of kosher supervision. It is they who are called on when equipment needs kashering or when a company needs approval of a new source of supply. Without them, there would be no OU Kosher.

OU Kosher works—first and foremost—for the Jewish community. OU Kosher is not a private business; no individual owns it, no individuals profit from it.

A not-for-profit in the classic sense of the word, the money generated from the license of the symbol returns to the community at large in the form of the OU's vital programming. OU Kosher is the foundation upon which the OU provides its huge array of communal services.

The symbol is much more than a symbol of kosher certification—it attests to the vitality of the Jewish community.

30 Days Before Pesach: Time to Study a

Sunday

Tuesday

JEWISH HOLIDAYS

commemorate monumental historical events of our people. They are about family, friends and food. More than that, they are an exceptional time to celebrate our special relationship with God.

There are numerous ways in which we must prepare for Passover, but they're not just about shopping, cooking and cleaning. "Moshe taught the festivals of God to the children of Israel," (Leviticus 23:44). Our Sages ordained that for thirty days in preparation of each Jewish holiday, we should study the laws and customs of the Yom Tov.

Beginning on Purim, take a moment on each of the next thirty days to prepare for a spiritually inspirational Passover.

It is customary to donate to a special charity (ma'ot chitim) to assist less fortunate families in preparing for their Pesach.

It is appropriate to purchase gifts for family members before holidays to enhance their enjoyment of these special days.

Throughout Nissan, the month of our redemption, tachanun is not recited in Shacharit and Mincha, and no eulogies are delivered at funerals.

Those of Ashkenazic descent do not consume legumes during Pesach, but there is no restriction on owning them.

The water used for baking matzah must be drawn and stored the previous day.

Matzah flour must be supervised from the point of milling. Shemurah flour is supervised from the time of harvest.

Any chametz that remained in the possession of a Jew during Pesach is forbidden to be consumed or benefited from in any way after the holiday.

When the Pesach Seder falls on Shabbat, as this year, all preparations must be completed before Shabbat and Yom Tov.

Any matzah used for the Seder may not contain anything but matzah flour and water. No salt or spices are permitted in the dough.

It is customary not to eat roasted meat or poultry at the Seder, including the shankbone (zeroa) that is a feature of the Seder plate.

The prohibition of chametz on Pesach goes beyond eating it to include getting any benefit from it at all (e.g., feeding it to one's pet).

It is customary to eat a hard-boiled egg (baytzah)—a food associated with mourning—at the Seder, as a remembrance of the destruction of the Temple.

It is customary to study at least one Pesach law during the Purim feast, which is exactly 30 days before the Pesach Seder.

If one leaves home for the holiday any time from Purim on, one is required to perform bedikat chametz, the search for chametz.

While any Kosher for Passover matzah may be used during Pesach, it is preferable to use shmurah matzah at the Seder.

Chametz utensils may be purged of their chametz absorptions with boiling water or flame.

The wine used at the Seder should be of good quality, and to the taste of the participants.

The bitter herbs used for maror should be raw, not cooked or soaked.

On this Shabbat we read the special Torah reading concerning the red heifer sacrifice used to bring about ritual purity before Pesach (Numbers 19:1-22).

After the Seder, we do not eat or drink anything (except water) until the next morning.

Egg matzah is not permitted for consumption during Pesach by those of Ashkenazic descent, except for young children or the sick.

Everyone should recline in comfortable chairs at the Seder.

Many people have the custom to avoid eating matzah starting this day, so that one will eat it at the Seder with increased appetite.

Anyone who has difficulty drinking four cups of wine may substitute with cups of grape juice instead.

Chametz that is inedible (e.g., detergent) may be owned and used on Pesach.

The purpose of the Haggadah is to relate the story and to convey the timeless messages of the Exodus to the next generation.

On this day, the Rabbi delivers a special Shabbat Hagadol sermon to prepare us for Pesach.

Any chametz that will not be burnt or otherwise disposed of must be sold (and its storage area rented) to a non-Jew via the Rabbi.

On this evening we perform the candlelit search for chametz. Any chametz that is found is kept to be burnt the next morning. Any unseen chametz is nullified via a verbal declaration.

The fast for first-born children on this day is broken via a ceremonial siyum meal following Shacharit. The remaining chametz is burned, and everything needed for the Seder is prepared.

Orchestrating a Successful Seder

The Passover Seder is arguably the most important evening in the Jewish religious calendar. Enormous emphasis has always been placed on transmitting our “Yiddishkeit” to the next generation. Nowhere is that theme more prominent than Pesach night.

With all the planning and preparation that goes into this wonderful holiday (shopping, cleaning, cooking – and more cleaning) we have to make sure to keep the essential goals in sight and in mind.

Here are some ideas to help solidify the experience for the family:

1 Preparation

Even as the household preparations reach a crescendo, preparing for the educational/spiritual part of the Seder also takes time and energy. Set aside a few moments to study the Haggadah as often as possible starting a month before Pesach.

2 Deputize

Enlist the active involvement of all participants—

ask them to prepare a reading, bring a question, share a story, or deliver a d’var Torah.

3 Themes

Identify themes. My father-in-law likes to identify a particular theme and discuss it throughout the evening. Develop ideas about a few particular transcendent themes and share them with participants at your Seder: miracles, freedom, nationhood, etc.

The phenomenon of freedom, for example, is a complex concept, and brings with it blessings, demands, responsibilities, and hidden challenges.

4 Props

Use props to illustrate how difficult slavery was, or how bad the plagues were. Reward the children with small prizes for participating. There are all kinds of props you can find at a Judaica store or make yourself.

5 Experience emotion

The beauty of Torah-living is communicated from generation to generation via the twin traditions of intellect and emotion, and the Seder contains both elements, in abundance.

Through our own example, without saying an explicit word on the topic, we can teach our children to appreciate the warmth, texture, passion, and beauty of a life of mitzvah-observance.

Enjoy the evening. Smile, radiate warmth, and bask in the happiness of sharing this glorious gift from God with your family and friends.

6 Personalizing

The structure of the Seder and its essential elements and character are inviolate. They are timeless and eternal, and, as a result, eternally timely and transcendent.

We have an obligation to apply the lessons of the Seder to ourselves and our own lives. The process of “yetzi’at mitzrayim” [the Exodus from Egypt] has a lot to tell us about how to effect our own process of “yetzi’at meitzarim” [emerging from the narrow constrictions] we experience in our own lives. Indeed, the process of the original Exodus finds its culmination in our own individual processes of liberation and redemption.

Identify practical strategies for personalizing this “blueprint to freedom” for your own life, and invite your participants to do the same.

7 Imagination

It’s hard to convey or orchestrate a visceral experience of the events in Egypt if you don’t have one yourself. It’s almost impossible to inspire a sense of wonder in other people if you don’t have one yourself. Close your eyes and take a trip back through time. Imagine you are back in Egypt. Describe a day in the life of a Jew in Egypt. Harness the power of your “ko’ach ha’tzi’uri,” your ability to imagine. Relive the events of that fateful night in Egypt. Take your children along for the ride.

This isn’t just good advice; it’s the halachah. According to the Haggadah, “In every generation Jews are obligated to see themselves as if they personally left Egypt.”

8 Teaching moment

Be on the lookout for those moments when a discussion of some aspect of the Exodus story begins to gather momentum and take on a life of its own. Perhaps the entire evening will not be characterized by free-flowing discussion and searching questions asked by the kids. But there are those moments when, suddenly, out of the blue, a participant, motivated by real curiosity, will say something like, “Yeah, but why did Pharaoh think he could . . .” That’s it! Don’t be impatient, don’t move on—you have lift-off! Embrace the moment!

The Exodus from Egypt happened over 3,300 years ago. This event in history provides some of the most important lessons in Judaism, and is the basis for our continued existence as a people. The importance of the Seder as an educational tool—as the means of passing along the mesorah, the chain of tradition of our people—cannot be overestimated.

If you follow these guidelines, or poll your friends for other ideas that work, and you do a little preparation in advance of that “exalted evening,” you will provide the participants at your Seder with a night of inspiration and growth, fulfill a mitzvah of the Torah, and create a lifetime of memories and images of you that your children and grandchildren, friends, relatives, and guests will carry with them far, far into the future.

posted, tweeted asked and answered

A sample of the wide range of questions that members of the public have recently asked OU Kosher on Facebook and Twitter

 Allison Q Do you have to check the bathroom for chametz? And what about closets?

A When trying to determine which areas of your home, office or even car need to be searched for chametz before Pesach, the general rule of thumb to consider is where was chametz normally eaten or stored during the year. Although you might not think that the bathroom fits this description, there are items that may be stored in a medicine cabinet that present a halachic problem on Pesach. For example, liquid medicines, chewable pills and pills coated with a flavored glaze are considered palatable and may contain chametz. Furthermore, rabbinical authorities disagree as to whether kosher certification of items used for oral hygiene and lip treatment is required (both for Pesach and year-round). Lastly, if you have small children in your home, you must assume that chametz has been eaten (or hidden) in every room. Therefore, your bathroom and your closets would require bedika (checking) as well.

 Ronit Q What about baby products on Pesach? What do I need to know?

A You should be careful when purchasing baby products to ensure that, either the product has special Pesach certification or has been listed as an item that does not require special Passover certification. These items can be found both in the general listing in this Guide, and in the special section entitled Infant Formulas and Nutritional Supplements. In addition, although rice is kitniyot, consumption of kitniyot is permitted by infants. However, manufactured baby rice cereals can contain actual chametz.

 Rachel Q Is tequila kosher for Pesach?

A Tequila, though generally accepted for year-round use (without the worm, of course), does require special Passover supervision. The agave fruit, on which tequila is based, presents no Pesach concerns, but we must be certain that no chametz-derived material is used, because yeast is often added to the fermentation process.

 Mindy Q What about water bottles? Can any unopened bottle of water be used on Pesach?

A There are no kashrut issues with bottled water at this time, including for use on Pesach.

 David Q I have some pointed questions for you guys: A lot of the food you certify as kosher is unhealthy or even dangerous due to factors such as being grown with chemical pesticides, containing high levels of sugar, or containing high-fructose corn syrup, etc. How does the commandment in the Torah that we're supposed to take care of our health jibe with kosher certification of unhealthy food? In supermarkets with kosher aisles it seems that they're half filled with candy, pastries, and other junk. Even store-bought gefilte fish can contain sugar! Not only that, but did you know that farm workers exposed to chemical pesticides can get severely ill or even die due to pesticide exposure? I'm not saying you must immediately stop certifying unhealthy foods but I think this is a very important issue for you to consider.

A Halacha is extremely sensitive to matters of health, to the extent that chamira sakanta me'isura (life-threatening health concerns generally take precedence over halachic restrictions). Nonetheless, as a kashrut agency, the expertise of OU Kosher is limited to the domain of kosher supervision, and the evaluation of the health status of a product is beyond the scope of the OU's mandate. There are government agencies that are entrusted with the responsibility of ensuring the safety of food items, and the OU certifies products that meet the criteria of public health and safety requirements.

Steve Q When I was growing up (many years ago) there seemed to be a more liberal understanding of bitul (nullification) for ta'arovet chametz (a mixture containing minor amounts of chametz) that was purchased before Pesach (as bitul does not apply on Pesach itself). For example, if I buy butter (with an OU, of course) before Pesach, why should that not be as good as eggs or milk that I buy before Pesach?

A Let's not confuse two separate matters. The reason that eggs or milk are purchased before Pesach is typically because of chumra d'pisha (a Passover stringency), which has concern even for the feed given to the hen that laid the egg or the cow that provided the milk. Butter, on the other hand, may actually contain flavors, colors, culturing agents or whey cream (a by-product of cheese). The nullification of such additives is more complicated.

Victoria Q Does a vanilla bean need kosher certification?

A Vanilla beans do not require special certification for Passover, provided that they are not "exhausted". Exhausted beans are beans dried after the extraction process (to make vanilla extract). This process is kosher sensitive and requires certification.

Caroline Q Quinoa—still thumbs up (please, please, please...)?

A As a New World grain, quinoa has been a source of much recent halachic debate. Though it was the staple grain of the Incas, quinoa was almost eradicated by the European conquerors and was all but forgotten until it was reintroduced to the world in the 1970s.

Some argue that since quinoa is a staple grain in its native lands, and is ground and baked into bread in a similar manner to wheat, it should be considered kitniyot, like corn. Yet others maintain that corn and quinoa are not comparable. Corn has been accepted for generations as kitniyot, as have peanuts, for those who regard them as such. In contrast, in the case of quinoa, since it is so new, clearly no minhag (established custom) exists. Some kashrut organizations recommend using quinoa on Pesach and others do not. Since OU posekim (authorities) are divided on this issue, the OU does not recommend using it, but you should ask your Rabbi for his guidance. [Even those who choose to be lenient must check through their quinoa grains carefully before Passover to ensure that no chametz grains are mixed in.]

Bethany Q What products do NOT need an OU Kosher for Passover certification?

A Certain OU-certified products are Kosher for Passover even without special Passover certification. These products include inedibles such as aluminum foil and pans, candles, cleansers, detergents and paper goods, as well as food items such as unflavored regular coffee (not instant or decaffeinated), unprocessed raw meat or poultry, sugar and bottled water. For a complete listing, see the gray pages in this Guide, or visit www.oupassover.org.

Rachel Q Where can I find OUP pareve chocolate for baking?

A The OU does not maintain distribution information for the products that we certify. Hershey's, Alprose, Elite, Oppenheimer and Schmerling brands manufacture OU-certified kosher pareve chocolate products. You can either ask your local grocer to carry these brands or call the manufacturers and find out where their products are sold near you.

Alan Q What can I feed my pet on Passover?

A The prohibition of chametz extends beyond not eating chametz on Passover. One is also not permitted to own or derive benefit from chametz. Therefore, you cannot feed chametz to your pet. The question then becomes, "How do I know if there is chametz in the pet food?" At this time, the FDA strictly regulates pet food labeling. As such, you may read the label with confidence of its accuracy.

These items, commonly-found on pet food ingredient panels, are acceptable for animals on Pesach: beans, buckwheat, brewer's rice, corn, grain sorghum (milo), millet, peanuts, peas, rice, safflower, sesame, soybeans, soy flour, and sunflower. Consumption of kitniyot is permitted for pets.

The following commonly-listed items are NOT acceptable for Pesach: wheat (cracked, flour, germ, gluten, ground, grouts, middlings, starch), barley (cracked, flour), oats (flour, grouts, hulled), pasta, rye, and brewer's dried yeast.

Dog and cat foods made with gravy or sauce often contain chametz. Some pet foods are manufactured on equipment used for both chametz and non-chametz products, which causes a transfer of chametz taste into the food. The non-chametz pet foods may still be used since there is no benefit to the owner from the chametz taste.

You may not leave your pet with a non-Jew during Pesach if you know that chametz will be provided. Since many pet foods do contain chametz, you should not leave your pet at a kennel unless you supply the kennel with non-chametz food, or at least stipulate which non-chametz food the kennel may serve. In case of necessity, you may sell your animal to a non-Jew who will then take it onto his own property, and feed the animal as he chooses. The sale should take place only under the guidance of a Rabbi.

A Labor of Love

A Wine Maker's Notebook

By Rabbi Yaakov Drew

Since I was a child, you might say, I've had a love affair with wine.

As a kid, I tried making wine from table grapes, but obviously it wasn't that drinkable. After that experience, I wondered how wine is really made.

As a yeshiva student, I was once asked to help my Rosh Yeshiva make wine in his cellar. At once, I jumped at the opportunity. Seeing all the contraptions, carboys (the big glass jugs used in winemaking) . . . the process piqued my interest. Whenever I had an opportunity to learn anything more about wine, and winemaking, I took advantage.

When I toured the Galil, I visited several wineries, and was favorably impressed (I still am) at the quality of high-end Israeli wines. After a tour of the wineries, and seeing the winemaking process in both industrial settings and boutique winery settings, I realized that wine is a complex drink and the many factors that contribute to the characteristic of the wine.

Since that enlightening Israel trip, I made it a point to have a different bottle of wine every week at my Shabbat table, as a means for Oneg Shabbat, and to educate myself on varieties of grapes, regions, and winemaking procedures.

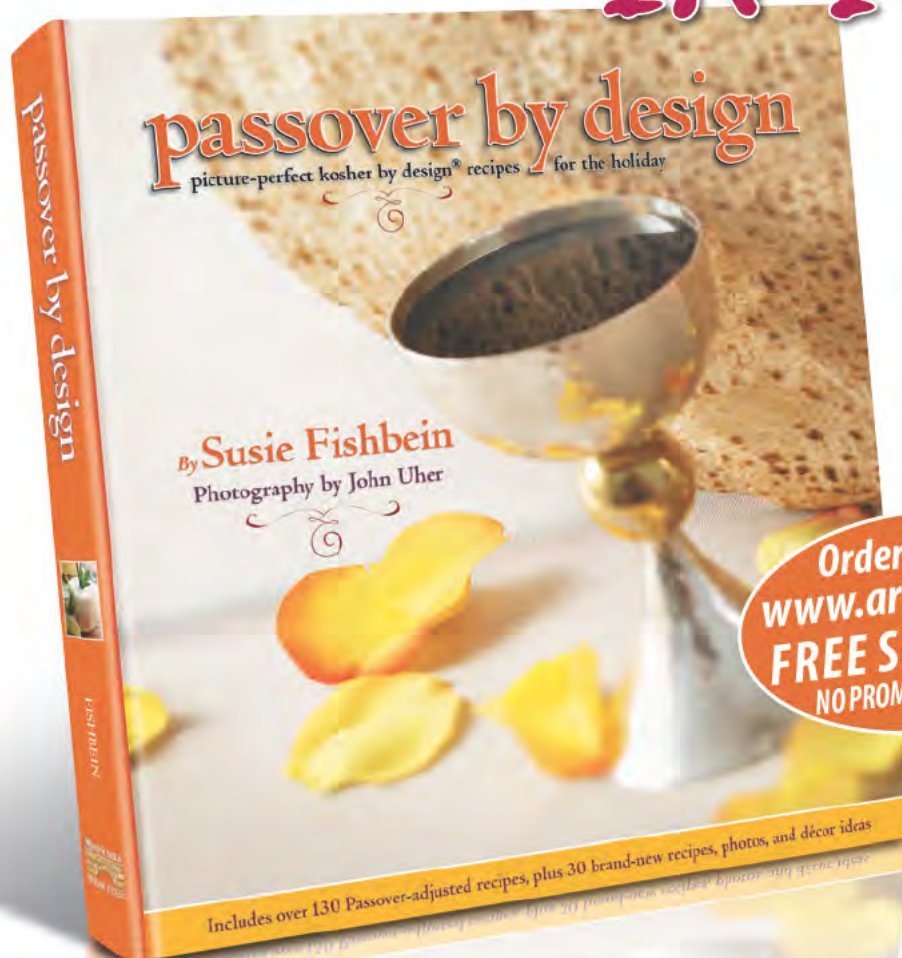

Fast forward five years, and I decided that it was time to start making my own wine. Year after year, I learnt more and more from this hobby. I started with a couple of gallons a year, and grew to a half a ton of grapes a year.

Finally, I decided to go the professional route, and interned at a winery during harvest. With lots of experience, and a passion for winemaking, I was fortunate to get a position as a mashgiach for the OU at a local boutique winery. Working the harvest, crushing the grapes, fermentation, barrel aging, and even lab analysis have given me a unique appreciation for wine from a winemaker's point of view, and these all go through my thoughts when I make the borei p'ri hagafen blessing on a glass of wine.

Here's the winemaking process:

Before we start, the winery equipment is immaculately cleaned and prepared to start a new vintage. It starts with a truckload of grapes, arriving early in the morning. From that moment, it is hard work for the next few weeks.

The grapes are hand fed into a destemmer, where grapes with stems removed move onto a sorting table. There any undesired berries, leaves, twigs . . . are removed by hand.

Following sorting, the grapes move up a conveyor and into the tank where they will be fermenting for the next couple of weeks.

After this is done, all equipment that was used is cleaned again, so it can be ready for the grape delivery the next morning. This cycle repeats itself for as long as the grapes are available for processing.

When a tank is full of grapes/wine, the winemaker at his discretion will decide if laboratory cultivated yeast is added or the natural occurring yeast will be allowed to do its work. During fermentation, yeast consumes the natural sugars found in the grapes, and converts it into alcohol. During this process—the juice which is called the must—has really no color, flavor, or aromatics. It is only through the fermentation, that the wine gets its color, flavor, and aromatics. Seeing fermentation in action is a true

The Israeli Kosher Wine Scene

As interest in kosher wine has increased and sophistication of the kosher wine consumer has developed over the last few years, demand for quality kosher wines has led the wine industry, and in particular the Israeli wineries to innovate and produce higher-tiered wines with corresponding higher-end pricing. The result will be more experimentation with winemaking styles, techniques and new varietals. Adventurous Israeli winemakers will continue to explore varietals from around the globe, and other grapes indigenous to countries and wine-growing regions with climates and terroir similar to Israel. Others will look at different varieties not yet popular in the kosher market, for example Carignan, Petit Verdot, Cabernet Franc and Grenache. Additionally, given the romantic and everlasting optimistic views of wine makers and lovers, new wineries will continue to crop up with new and exciting offerings and more wineries will become kosher. Despite the fact that 2008 was a shmittah year and less Israeli wines were made kosher, and 2009 and 2010 were not spectacular vintage years in Israel, 2011 was a substantially better harvest. In addition to Israeli wines, look out for an increasing number of kosher offerings from California, Spain, Chile, Argentina and France.

wonder of Hashem's creation, especially when it is watched day to day, as the color starts developing, as the aromatics become beautiful, and as the flavor kicks in.

The process can actually be seen. One can see the CO2 escaping from the fermentation which gives the tank an appearance as if it is boiling. Yeast cells need to be monitored, and cared for hourly, so that they stay healthy and do their job right. That is accomplished by analyzing samples of the wine with special lab equipment, by physically mixing the contents of each tank, several times a day, for ten days up to one month, and by feeding them nutrients as required.

It is only after the yeast has consumed all the natural sugar, that the must is taken out of the tank, and pressed, and put into oak barrels.

Though it is already called wine, the product will still go through several developments, e.g., the malolactic fermentation, which is a process in which the malic acid turns into lactic acid, which in laymen's terms means the harsh acid which is present in young wines, turns into more mellow and desirable acid.

After a couple of months, or sometimes years, of constant monitoring of the wine in the barrel for its development, the wine is ready for bottling.

It is important to realize that, for kosher wine, the product is handled only by Sabbath-observant Jews in every single process, from when the grapes arrive until the bottle is corked and sealed. This applies to all kinds of work, including physically intensive activities such as scrubbing barrels or mixing huge tanks. In the wine industry, the mashgiach is not just supervising but performs all tasks.

During bottling, reflecting on the lifecycle of the wine, one wonders at the amount of human intervention needed to fill this bottle.

Now when I raise the glass of wine for kiddush, tracing the product all the way back to the grape, the blessing on the wine has a completely different meaning, and so does the taste of the wine. I now fully appreciate (at the conclusion of this long and hard process) why it is that wine deserves its own unique bracha.

PASSOVER INFO

Online

The websites www.OUKOSHER.org and www.OUPASSOVER.org are a veritable treasure trove of information regarding kosher generally and Passover specifically. Look there for the full explanation of all these items, written by the expert Rabbinical Coordinators of OU Kosher.

Tevilat Keilim

Isn't the mikveh the place where people immerse themselves? Why did I see my neighbor lugging his silverware to the mikveh?

Passover preparations often include the acquisition of new dishes and kitchen utensils. Under many circumstances one is obligated to ritually immerse those vessels in a mikveh.

ONLINE:

Rabbi Moshe Zywica reviews the laws of "Tevilat Keilim" — the when, the how and the why of this mitzvah.

Cigarettes on Pesach

Smoking has been well-established as a dangerous-to-your-health activity. Could cigarettes pose additional problems for the Passover-observant individual?

Tobacco often included grain-based additives. Is that practice a current reality? Smoking on Shabbat is certainly forbidden. What about smoking on Yom Tov?

ONLINE:

Rabbi David Bistricher clarifies the obvious and the lesser-known potential problems of "Cigarettes on Pesach".

Romaine Lettuce

I've seen romaine lettuce specially packaged with a kosher symbol. Why would a plain raw vegetable need kosher supervision?

This popular salad vegetable, enjoyed year-round, is often used as the bitter herb (maror) at the Seder. However, romaine leaves can be infested with tiny thrips and aphids.

ONLINE:

Rabbi David Bistricher teaches how to check and clean "Romaine Lettuce" and other similar vegetables.

Matzah

The Pesach holiday revolves around this special wafer-like bread. How is it made? What makes it so special?

ONLINE:

Rabbi Yaakov Horowitz reveals the unique care that goes into preparing and baking "Matzah".

Gebrochts

Matzah balls, or kneidlach as they known in Yiddish, are not consumed by some until the last day of Pesach. Why do some Jews avoid this time-honored delicacy?

Many Kosher for Passover manufacturers and hotel programs have adapted to cater to the demands of this segment of the kosher consuming public.

ONLINE:

Rabbi Nachum Rabinowitz traces some recent market changes to the "Gebrochts" Passover stringency.

Visit www.OUKOSHER.org and www.OUPASSOVER.org for all the answers.

Kitniyot

The custom of avoiding kitniyot on Pesach was adopted primarily by Ashkenazic communities. Most Jews of Sephardic ancestry do use kitniyot on Pesach.

While OUP means Kosher for Passover for all communities, the OU expends much effort in approving kitniyot products for the Sephardic communities.

ONLINE:

Rabbi Avorohom Juravel provides examples of certain "Kitniyot" misconceptions.

Microwaves and Dishwashers

The contemporary kitchen includes these essential appliances. Can they be koshered so that they can be used for Pesach?

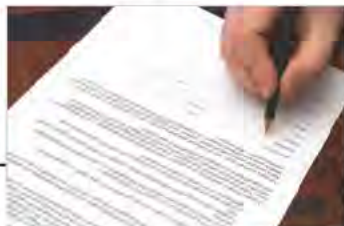

ONLINE:

Rabbi Eli Gersten discusses various methods for koshering "Microwaves & Dishwashers" and their effectiveness.

Mechirat Chometz

ONLINE:

Rabbi Dov Schreier walks us through the intricacies of the "Mechirat Chametz" transaction.

Passover restricts not only what we may eat but also what we may own. Everyone's Pesach checklist includes a visit to the Rabbi for the sale of chametz. How many of us bother to read the fine print of the legal documents?

Know before you sign.

All in Good Measure

The Seder includes many symbolic foods for us to eat. How much must I eat? How quickly must they be consumed?

ONLINE:

Rabbi David Bistricher discusses the volume and time parameters for the ritual Seder foods, "All in Good Measure".

Grapes to Kosher Wine

Grape wine is from the most kosher sensitive products requiring that it be handled exclusively by observant Jews. Many kosher wines are labeled Mevushal. What does that claim mean, and how does it affect the handling restriction?

ONLINE:

Rabbi Shmuel Singer traces the process from the “Grapes to Kosher Wine”.

Question of Quinoa

ONLINE:

Rabbi Avrohom Juravel clarifies the “Question of Quinoa” for Pesach.

I’ve heard that the popular grain-like crop quinoa is acceptable for Pesach, but then I heard that it was considered kitniyot—which one is it?

Avoiding kitniyot on Pesach is an Ashkenazic tradition dating back many centuries. Applying that ancient custom to relatively new crops is an interesting challenge.

Infants and the Infirm

Passover observance is based on Jewish law but also includes many traditions and stringencies. Extenuating circumstances sometimes cancel Pesach customs and even Passover laws.

Following the typical Passover diet in a nursery or in a nursing home can be difficult, and sometimes even dangerous.

ONLINE:

Rabbi Eli Gersten analyzes the appropriate conduct when feeding “Infants & the Infirm on Pesach”.

Yashan and Chadash

ONLINE:

Rabbi Eli Gersten elucidates the concepts of “Yashan & Chadash” and their practical application in today’s kosher market.

Why does my box of kosher cookies say “yashan”? What does that term tell me about the product?

Pesach, one of the most important dates on the Jewish calendar, also ushers in the New Year for the current grain crop, permitting its consumption. Yashan (old crop) is a term found on the labels of some grain-based products, indicating that it meets that condition.

the Observing Passover Holiday

{ No other ceremony or ritual is as beloved or is more widely observed by so many as the Passover Seder...

...yet celebrating Passover properly requires close familiarity with all the laws governing Passover foods, ownership of chametz, preparing the home, and so on.

In this Guide, we have provided much of the basic information you will need. However, if you are unsure about any aspect at all of how to observe Passover, or how to make sure your home fully conforms to the Passover requirements, you should not hesitate to ask an Orthodox Rabbi for his guidance.

PASSOVER FAQs

What is Passover?

Passover is an eight day Jewish holiday, of biblical origin, marking the birth of the Jewish people and their emergence as a unique nation in history, devoted to God's will. It celebrates the liberation of the children of Israel from slavery in Egypt over 3000 years ago, under the leadership of Moses.

When Does Passover Begin?

According to biblical law, Passover is determined by the Jewish lunar calendar, and begins on the eve of the fifteenth day of the month of Nissan. The English date varies from year to year, falling in March or in April. This year Passover begins Friday evening, April 6, 2012.

What Does Kosher for Passover Mean?

During Passover, Jewish law forbids the consumption or possession by Jews of all edible fermented grain products (chametz) or related foods. Therefore, even foods and household products which meet the strict, year-round dietary regulations and are considered kosher, require special preparation for Passover use in the Jewish home in order to be kosher for Passover.

How Can One Tell if a Product is Kosher for Passover?

Most processed foods and beverages require special rabbinical supervision for Passover use. They must also be kosher for year-round use, and prepared in accordance with all of the regular Jewish dietary laws. Jewish consumers are urged to look for the "UP" or the "U" Kosher for Passover" designations as an integral part of the product label, or else be familiar with the Rabbi or organization giving the Passover endorsement. The mere mention of Kosher for Passover on the label is not a sufficient guarantee of the product's acceptability for Passover use. The largest and most widely respected kosher supervisory agency is the Orthodox Union. Its registered service mark, "UP," on thousands of consumer and industrial food products, is a guarantee of the highest standards of kashrut for Passover. Processed foods not carrying any rabbinical supervision should be cleared with a Rabbi before Passover use.

What is “Matzah”?

Matzah is a crisp, flat, unleavened bread, made of specifically supervised flour and water, which must be baked before the dough has had time to rise. It is the only type of “bread” which Jews may eat during Passover, and it must be made specifically for Passover use, under rabbinical supervision. Eating matzot on Passover commemorates the unleavened bread eaten by the Jews when they left Egypt in such haste that there was no time for the dough to rise. There are many mystical concepts tied to the unique relationship between matzot and chametz on Passover. One interpretation equates matzot with God’s commandments (mitzvot), and chametz with sin (chayt). The rigorous laws of Passover, in this interpretation, represent the great care that must be taken to follow the Godly path.

What Special Preparations Must Be Made in the Jewish Home for Passover?

The home must be thoroughly cleaned of all chametz before Passover. Any chametz not removed from a Jew’s premises before Passover should be sold. Jewish law forbids the use of any chametz which remains in a Jew’s possession during Passover, even after the holiday is over. All cooking and eating utensils must be either set aside exclusively for Passover use, or, in some cases, kashered (made kosher) in consultation with a Rabbi, according to the procedures of

Jewish law. All of these preparations must be completed by the morning before Passover. See the following section, "Preparing for Passover," for more specific details.

What are the Observances for the Period Before Passover Begins?

A ritual search for chametz is conducted Thursday evening, April 5, and the chametz that is found is burned the next morning.

This year Friday, April 6 is a fast day for Jewish firstborn males, in commemoration of the tenth plague, the slaying of the firstborn male Egyptians, which immediately resulted in the Exodus. In many congregations, a special celebration Siyum is conducted, following which participating firstborn males are permitted to break their fast.

What is the Passover Seder?

The Seder is a ritual banquet which reenacts the exodus, conducted on both the first and second evenings of Passover (Friday and Motzai Shabbat, April 6 and April 7, 2012). Its major feature is the reading of the Haggadah, which relates, in detail, the events of the exodus of the Jewish people from ancient Egypt, complete with symbolic reenactments using kosher wine, specially prepared matzot, and bitter herbs. The specially prepared shmurah matzot are made specifically for use at the Seder, with specially supervised flour according to particularly stringent Jewish traditions and laws. The bitter herbs (maror), consisting of either romaine lettuce or horseradish, recall the harsh conditions of slavery in ancient Egypt. Four cups of wine are consumed during the course of the Seder to commemorate the redemption of the Jewish people, the sanctity of the holiday and events related in the Haggadah. The Seder is a traditional occasion for Jewish families to gather together to renew and strengthen their Jewish identities.

When Do Passover Dietary Laws End?

All Passover dietary laws remain in effect until nightfall of the eighth day of Passover, Shabbat, April 14, 2012. Chametz which was in the possession or jurisdiction of a Jew during Passover, in violation of Jewish law, is forbidden for consumption by any Jew even after Passover.

What Other Restrictions are Applicable on Passover?

Sabbath-like restrictions on work and creative activity, with the exceptions of carrying and the use of fire (with respect to cooking and the preparation of food), apply to all Jews on the first two and last two days of Passover. Full Sabbath rules are in effect on the first and last days of Passover, April 7 and 14, which are Shabbatot. On the days of Chol Hamoed, (Sunday through Friday), only nonessential work, activities and crafts, as defined by Jewish law, are prohibited.

► Do Pets Need Kosher for Passover Food?

Since it is forbidden to own or benefit from chametz during Passover, food that contains chametz may not be fed to pets. However, it is permitted to give pets food that contains kitniyot. If one is unable to procure pet food that does not contain chametz, some rabbinical authorities allow for a sale, which would transfer to a gentile the ownership and responsibility of caring for the pet. Ask your Rabbi for guidance.

PREPARING for PASSOVER

► Removing Chametz

1 Prior to Passover, every Jew is required to remove all chametz from his home, property, and all premises under his or her jurisdiction (e.g., desk, office, locker, car). Even if one will not be on the premises during Passover, as long as one is there within 30 days of Passover, the obligation to remove all chametz before Passover applies. In such cases, one should consult a competent halachic authority and make the necessary arrangements.

2 To facilitate the removal of chametz, each Jew is obligated to conduct a diligent search in all places where chametz may have been kept or consumed any time during the preceding year. The specified time for this search this year is Thursday, April 5, 2012 at nightfall (approximately 45 minutes after sunset), traditionally using a feather and the light of a single candle. If using a candle is impractical or unsafe, a flashlight should be used. However, Passover cleaning in Jewish homes must be started much earlier, as the premises should be clean by the time the search begins. The blessing is recited before the search begins, and a public disclaimer of ownership of chametz (bitul) is recited afterward. These texts can be found in most traditional Haggadot.

3 It is permissible to sell chametz that has been stored in designated locations, to a non-Jew before the restrictions on chametz go into effect on the day before Passover. To comply with the stringent requirements of Jewish law, the sale is conducted by contract through an Orthodox Rabbi, who is empowered to act as an agent. The sold chametz becomes the non-Jew's property until after Passover ends, and must be treated accordingly. The chametz should be locked away until after Passover, when the Rabbi repurchases it for the community.

{ For more detailed instructions and guidance, a Rabbi should be consulted

► Utensils For Use on Passover

1 Jewish law requires special dishes, cooking utensils, glassware, and silverware for Passover use, with separate meat and dairy sets. They can be made of any material, including plastic or paper. Once these are used for chametz, they may not be used again on Passover.

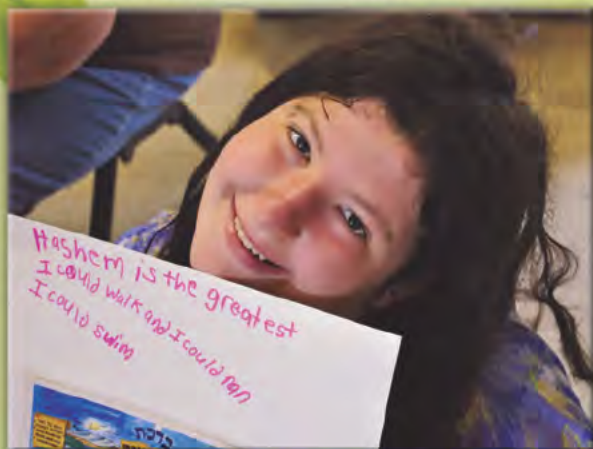

2 If it is not possible to maintain a complete set of separate utensils for Passover, it may be possible to use some year-round utensils for Passover after a special "kashering" procedure. "Kashering" should only be done under the guidance of an Orthodox Rabbi. Metal and wooden utensils, if they can be thoroughly cleaned, may be "kashered", but ceramic or earthenware utensils may not be "kashered". Procedures for "kashering" depend on how the utensil was used during the year. Ask your Rabbi for details.

3 Shelves, countertops and eating surfaces used year-round should be cleaned and covered for Passover use, and special dish racks, sink racks and basins should be used. Cooking surfaces should be thoroughly cleaned and covered.

Ovens should be thoroughly cleaned, and either "kashered" by being burnt out (consult your Rabbi for details) or used with a special insert liner.

► Foods Which May Not be Used on Passover

1 Any food or food product containing fermented grain products (chametz) may not be used or remain in a Jew's possession on Passover. Even foods with minute amounts of chametz ingredients, or foods processed on utensils which are used for other chametz-containing foods, are not permissible for Passover use.

2 Ashkenazic Jews, (Jews of European descent) also do not eat many legumes (kitniyot) — beans, corn, peas, rice, etc., and products containing them as ingredients throughout Passover, while Sephardic, Yemenite and Oriental Jewish customs vary from one community to another.

3 Because of the large number of food products which contain chametz or kitniyot ingredients, only food products manufactured under reliable rabbinical supervision should be purchased for Passover use. That includes beverages, condiments, spices, and all processed foods such as fruits and vegetables, fish, meat and dairy products, and especially, baked goods.

4 There are many families which maintain the tradition of additional restrictions to their Passover diet. Some do not eat any food products made of matzah or matzah meal mixed with water (gebrokts) during the first seven days of Passover.

BRIEF GUIDE to the PASSOVER SEDER

► Seder Plate

A special Seder plate is displayed during the Seder, containing the key symbols of Passover. The plate is carefully prepared and placed before the head of the household, or the one conducting the Seder, who dispenses the Seder foods to each of the participants. The following items appear on the Seder plate:

- THREE WHOLE MATZOT — unleavened "bread" (either on the plate or next to it);
- MAROR — bitter herbs, usually pure horseradish or romaine lettuce;
- CHAROSET — special mixture of apples, nuts, wine and cinnamon symbolizing mortar;
- KARPAS — a vegetable, preferably parsley or celery;
- ZEROA — a piece of roasted or boiled meat or poultry, preferably a shankbone, recalling the Paschal sacrifice of the original Exodus. Before the destruction of the Jerusalem Temple the Paschal sacrifice was the central feature of the Seder;
- BAYTZAH — a roasted or boiled egg, commemorating the festival sacrifice that was brought in the Jerusalem Temple. An egg is used because it is a traditional food for mourners, reminding us of the destruction of the Temple in Jerusalem;
- OTHER—There are other items that can be placed on Seder plates depending on the customs followed by the family.

► Basic Obligations

There are five basic obligations (mitzvot) performed by each Jew, in the course of the Seder conducted according to the traditional Haggadah:

- 1 Eating matzot
- 2 Drinking four cups of wine
(Arbah Kosot)
- 3 Eating bitter herbs (maror)
- 4 Relating the story of the exodus
(Haggadah or Magid)
- 5 Reciting Psalms of praise (Hallel)

Seder when matzah must be eaten — at the beginning of the Seder meal, when the special blessing over matzah is made; for Korech (Hillel sandwich) together with the maror; and at the end of the meal for the afikoman.

2 For the appropriate minimum quantities of matzah, and the time period in which it must be consumed, please refer to the following section on Shiurim.

3 Three unbroken matzot are required for the Seder plate for each Seder. Each individual must consume the minimum specified quantity of matzah during the course of the Seder. If the matzot from the Seder plate are insufficient, they should be supplemented by additional matzah.

4 The matzah is eaten while reclining on the left side as a symbol of freedom. The piece of matzah called afikoman should be eaten before midnight, and no solid food should be eaten thereafter.

5 To fulfill the mitzvot of the Seder, one should use shmurah matzot, which are produced under a special standard of supervision, beginning with the harvest of the grain (rather than with its milling into flour, as with regular matzot for Passover).

6 According to Ashkenazic practice, matzah made with fruit juice or eggs, including egg matzah, chocolate covered egg matzah, and white grape matzah, are permissible on Passover only for the elderly, sick, or young children who cannot digest regular matzah. Under no circumstances should they be eaten by others at any time during Passover, nor can they be eaten to fulfill the mitzvot of the Seder. Sephardim should consult their Rabbi.

Four Cups of Wine

1 Each Jew is obligated to drink four cups of wine at these specific times during each Seder: the first at the start of the Seder, following kiddush; the second before the meal, after reciting the Haggadah story; the third following the grace after the meal; and the last after completing the Psalms of praise (Hallel).

2 Please consult the following section on Shiurim for minimum volumes necessary to be consumed and time limits for each of the four cups.

3 Red wine is the preferred beverage for use during the Seder. If a person has difficulty drinking wine, it may be diluted with kosher grape juice, although some authorities hold that one may dilute the wine with water. If one wishes to dilute the wine with water, an Orthodox Rabbi should be consulted to determine the minimum acceptable proportions. If an individual cannot drink any grape product, then a Rabbi should be consulted on another substitute beverage in order to fulfill the mitzvah of drinking the four cups.

4 One should drink the wine reclining on the left side, in order to symbolize freedom.

Bitter Herbs (Maror)

1 Everyone is obligated to eat bitter herbs twice at each Seder. According to most authorities, the bitter herbs may consist either of romaine lettuce, horseradish or endives.

2 When using romaine lettuce, one may use the stalks or leaves. When horseradish is used, it should be chopped, ground or grated to reduce its strength, but it must be kept covered prior to use so as not to be weakened too much. Cooked or preserved vegetables are not suitable for maror; therefore commercially prepared grated horseradish, which is packed in vinegar, may not be used for the mitzvah.

When lettuce is used, it must be cleaned and inspected very carefully to remove the small insects which often are present in its leaves. One way to clean lettuce of insects is to soak it for not more than half an hour in salt water, and rinse it in fresh water before inspection.

3 The maror is dipped in charoset, a specially prepared mixture of wine, nuts, cinnamon, and apples, symbolizing the bricks and mortar of ancient Egypt.

4 Immediately thereafter, a second, smaller volume of maror is eaten with matzah in Korech (the Hillel sandwich).

5 Consult the following section on Shiurim for the minimum volume of maror to be consumed each time and the time limits.

Relating the Story of the Exodus and Hallel

1 Most of the unique Seder practices are designed to stimulate interest and arouse curiosity in the exodus story. The central theme for the Haggadah is the discussion of the exodus, a timeless event which has forged countless generations of Jews into an unbroken chain through history, with each year's Seder another link in that chain.

2 The Seder is a symbolic reenactment of the exodus, with a compelling message for young and old alike. Seder participants are encouraged to discuss the various aspects of the exodus in detail, beyond the text of the Haggadah.

3 Young children are encouraged to participate in the Seder to the extent of their ability. In addition to the Four Questions at the start of the Seder, they are encouraged to drink the Four Cups, eat the matzah and maror, and ask as many questions as they wish.

4 In addition to relating the story of the exodus, each Jew at the Seder is obligated to discuss three central elements of the Seder ritual — the Paschal sacrifice, the matzah and the maror, as explained in the Haggadah. The Seder is a miniature recreation of the exodus, and participants should imagine themselves as leaving Egypt.

5 The formal part of the Seder closes with the group of Psalms known as Hallel, which praise the Almighty and His special relationship with the people of Israel.

6 The Seder traditionally concludes with the singing of several lively songs celebrating the relationship between God and the Jewish people.

Shiurim: Measures and Minimums

In order to fulfill the mitzvot of the Passover Seder, it is necessary to consume a minimum quantity (shiur) of the four cups of wine, matzah and maror, within a maximum period of time. For wine, the volume of most of a revi't should be consumed. For matzah and maror, a k'zayit is the minimum volume. The time limit is k'day achilat pras.

Rabbinic authorities have historically disagreed as to the exact quantities that each of these represent in modern measures. Below you will find modern equivalent values for the minimum acceptable quantities (b'dieved) for each of these mitzvot, according to the listings published by the Otzar Haposkim of Jerusalem, together with some practical suggestions for estimating these amounts. Anyone who has difficulty consuming these amounts should ask a Rabbi for guidance.

Minimum Volume for Wine:

> 86 cc (3.0 fluid ounces)

This should be the minimum size of the wine cups used for the four cups. Each Seder participant must drink more than half this volume for each of the four cups to fulfill the mitzvah.

Minimum Quantity of Matzah:

> Approximately one-half of an average, machine-made matzah, or one-third of a hand-made matzah.

Minimum Volume of Maror (Bitter Herbs):

> 28 grams or 1 fluid ounce (for those who have difficulty, 19 grams or 0.7 fluid ounces).

When using ground horseradish:

> this volume can be easily estimated in a measuring cup.

When using lettuce leaves:

> enough to cover an area of 80 square inches (8" by 10").

When using lettuce stalks:

> enough to cover an area of 15 square inches (3" by 5").

Time Limits (K'day Achilat Pras)

Some people are careful to follow those opinions which teach that the entire amounts for each mitzvah should be consumed in one or two swallows. In any case, the drinking of each cup of wine and the eating of the matzah and maror should be completed within four minutes. In case of difficulty, ask a Rabbi.

PASSOVER Recipe Substitutes

At some point during Passover preparations we've all tried to convert a mainstream recipe into a Passover one only to discover that we don't have a clue as to what to substitute for a chametz ingredient. This panic moment is why I started compiling my Complete List of Passover Substitutes. I've added some great new substitutions this year, thanks to readers who have sent in their own ingenious creations. If anyone has any other substitutions that they would like to share please let me know (eztlog@hotmail.com) and I'll include them in next year's list.

The Complete List of Passover Substitutes

1 oz. baking chocolate (unsweetened chocolate) = 3 tablespoons unsweetened cocoa powder plus 1 tablespoon oil or melted margarine.

16 oz. semi-sweet chocolate = 6 tablespoons unsweetened cocoa powder plus 1/4 cup oil and 7 tablespoons granulated sugar.

14 oz. sweet chocolate (German-type) = 3 tablespoons unsweetened cocoa powder plus 2 2/3 tablespoons oil and 4 1/2 tablespoons granulated sugar.

1 cup confectioners' sugar = 1 cup granulated sugar minus 1 tablespoon sugar plus 1 tablespoon potato starch pulsed in a food processor or blender.

1 cup sour milk or buttermilk for dairy baking = 1 tablespoon lemon juice in a 1 cup measure, then fill to 1 cup with Passover nondairy creamer. Stir and steep 5 minutes.

Butter in baking or cooking = use pareve Passover margarine in equal amounts. Use a bit less salt.

1 cup honey = 1 1/4 cups granulated sugar plus 1/4 cup water.

1 cup corn syrup = 1 1/4 cups granulated sugar plus 1/3 cup water, boiled until syrupy.

1 cup vanilla sugar = 1 cup granulated sugar with 1 split vanilla bean left for at least 24 hours in a tightly covered jar.

1 cup of flour = substitute 5/8 cup matzoh cake meal or potato starch, or a combination sifted together.

1 tablespoon flour = 1/2 tablespoon potato starch.

1 cup corn starch = 7/8 cup potato starch.

Why is this night not different from all other nights?

Every day, 24/7, 365 days a year, including holidays, Magen David Adom is there for the people of Israel, providing expert medical care for every kind of emergency. This Passover, remember the millions who depend on MDA's speedy response. While we commemorate our journey to the Promised Land, let's remember our brethren in Israel.

Wishing you and your family a joyous Pesach.

1 cup corn starch = $\frac{7}{8}$ cup potato starch.

1 teaspoon cream of tartar = 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon lemon juice or 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ teaspoon vinegar.

1 cup graham cracker crumbs = 1 cup ground cookies or soup nuts plus 1 teaspoon cinnamon.

1 cup bread crumbs = 1 cup matzoh meal.

1 cup matzoh meal = 3 matzot ground in a food processor.

1 cup matzoh cake meal = 1 cup plus 2 tablespoons matzoh meal finely ground in a blender or food processor and sifted.

3 crumbled matzot = 2 cups matzoh farfel.

1 cup (8 oz.) cream cheese = 1 cup cottage cheese pureed with $\frac{1}{2}$ stick butter or margarine.

Chicken fat or gribenes = 2 caramelized onions, saute 2 sliced onions in 2 tablespoons oil and 2 tablespoons sugar. Cook until the onions are soft. Puree the onions once they are golden.

1 cup milk (for baking) = 1 cup water plus
2 tablespoons margarine, or $\frac{1}{2}$ cup fruit juice plus $\frac{1}{2}$ cup water.

1 $\frac{1}{4}$ cup sweetened condensed milk
= 1 cup instant nonfat dry milk,
 $\frac{2}{3}$ cup sugar, $\frac{1}{3}$ cup boiling water and 3 tablespoons margarine. Blend all the ingredients until smooth. To thicken, let set in the refrigerator for 24 hours.

1 cup wine = 13 tablespoons water,
3 tablespoons lemon juice and 1 tablespoon sugar.

Mix together and let set for 10 minutes.

For frying: Instead of chicken fat, use combination of olive oil or vegetable oil and 1 to 2 tablespoons pareve Passover margarine.

Egg = Passover egg substitutes don't work quite as well as the chametz egg substitutes. For kugels, matzoh balls, fried matzoh and some cakes the recipes will probably be OK. However, if you want to avoid them (and I do) you can add one extra egg white and 1/2 teaspoon of vegetable oil for each yolk eliminated when baking. Use only egg whites as the dipping to coat and fry meats.

Italian Seasoning = 1/4 teaspoon EACH dried oregano leaves, dried marjoram leaves and dried basil leaves plus 1/8 teaspoon rubbed dried sage. This can be substituted for 1 1/2 teaspoons Italian seasoning.

Curry Powder = 2 tablespoons ground coriander, 1 tablespoon black pepper, 2 tablespoons red pepper, 2 tablespoons turmeric, 2 tablespoons ground ginger. Makes 2/3 cup.

Pancake syrup = use fruit jelly, not jam and add a little water to thin. I always like to combine the jelly and water in a microwave safe bowl and heat it gently before I serve it.

Seasoned Rice Wine Vinegar = 3 tablespoons white vinegar, 1 tablespoon white wine, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt. Mix to combine. Makes 1/4 cup.

Flavored Vinegar = lemon juice in cooking or salad, grapefruit juice in salads, wine in marinades.

Water Chestnuts = substitute raw jicama.

Orange liqueur = substitute an equal amount of frozen orange juice concentrate.

Parsley = mince the tops of green onions and use them in recipes that call for chives or use celery tops.

Why does Passover food always taste
bland?

It doesn't have to!

Gold's Tip: Season chicken, veal or steak and bake or broil as you normally would.

Coat liberally with Gold's sweet or savory sauces and brown under the broiler for 5 minutes for a flavor and texture boost.

www.healthyhorseradish.com

Why is horseradish always either red or white?

It doesn't have to!

Gold's Wasabi Sauce is the perfect complement to any Cuisine.

Gold's Tip:

Spread some Gold's Wasabi Sauce inside a leaf of Boston Lettuce. Lay strips of gefilte fish, cucumber and/or scallions. Roll up and slice as you would Sushi for a creative snack or appetizer.

Why does my Passover brisket always taste
the same?

It doesn't have to!

Gold's Tip:

For an enhanced, richer flavor rub prepared horseradish on the brisket and whisk some more into the meaty sauce for a little zest just before serving.

THE WAY Grandma MADE IT™

HERE'S HOW SIMPLE Grandma's Homemade Gefilte Fish is today, thanks to A & B preparing the raw mix of fresh fish, chopped onions & spices and keeping it frozen until you're ready to cook it.

ALL YOU HAVE TO DO is add your favorite seasoning with a healthy dash of love & cook to perfection...

WOW! Such delicious gefilte fish with so little effort (but your guests will never know)!

Find it in the freezer section of your local supermarket.

WISHING YOU A HAPPY & HEALTHY PASSOVER!

Guidelines for Medicines

1 Known and tested medications in the form of creams, non-chewable pills and injections may be owned, used and consumed on Passover, even if they contain chametz or kitniyot, since they are inedible. This covers most medicines used by adults.

If an equally effective chametz-free alternative is available or procurable, this should be used instead.

a. It is permissible to grind pills and mix the powder into food items so that a child can take medicine on Passover. However, a doctor must be consulted to make sure that the child is getting the correct dosage and that the potency of the pill is not compromised by altering its consistency.

2 Liquid medicines, chewable pills and pills coated with a flavored glaze are considered palatable and may contain chametz. Also Gelcaps may present a problem because they may contain non-kosher edible gelatin. Therefore:

a. If possible, they should be replaced — under the direction of a doctor — with a non-chewable, uncoated pill.

b. If substitution is not possible and the person is in a state of sakanah or safek sakanah (any possible danger to human life), the medication may be owned and consumed. The same applies if the condition is not yet a safek sakanah but may deteriorate to that point.

A Rabbi should be consulted as to whether it is preferable to purchase the medicine before or on Passover, and as to how to dispose of the medicine once the danger passes.

c. If substitution is not possible and a doctor determines that there is no possibility of sakanah if the person does not take the medicine, a Rabbi should be consulted. He may be able to determine that the medicine does not contain chametz and/or kitniyot, or he may decide that the medicine may be consumed due to the seriousness of the patient's condition.

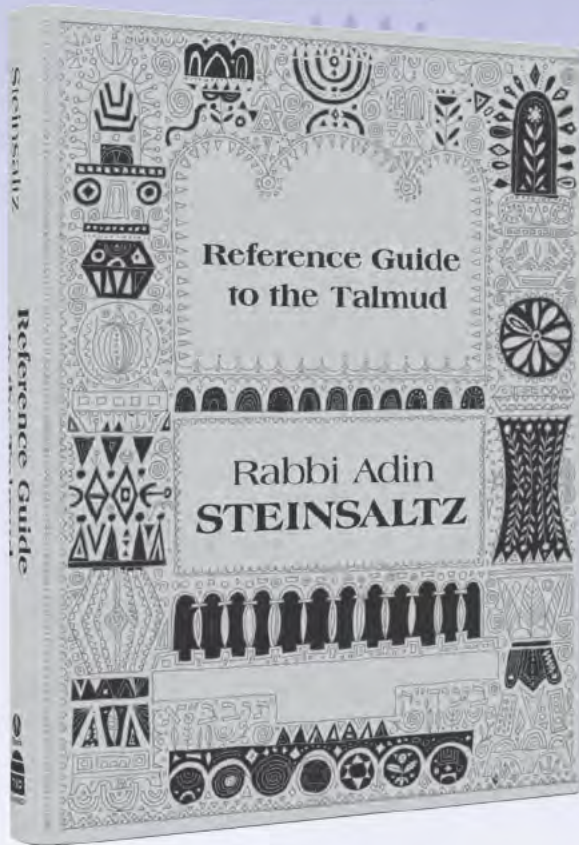

3 In many cases, medicinal items which contain kitniyot are permitted for people who are ill. Questions on this issue should be directed to your Rabbi.

4 You should exercise extreme caution and consult with your doctor and Rabbi before making a decision not to take a medicine.

5 These guidelines do not address the more general prohibition of consuming medicines on Shabbat and Yom Tov.

PLEASE NOTE THE FOLLOWING POINTS:

> Many of the products contain kitniyot, some as the primary ingredient.

> Some of the products may contain minor ingredients that are possibly, though unlikely, produced from chametz-based raw materials. All such ingredients are used at a less than 1:60 ratio.

> Liquid versions of these products are preferable to their powdered counterparts.

> Products that contain flavors should only be provided when no unflavored alternative exists.

> Products should be purchased before Passover and be maintained segregated from kosher for Passover foods.

> Materna brand infant formula from Israel, under the Passover certification of the BaDatz is available in some markets in the USA. Consult your doctor before changing infant formula.

Food Round-Up

CONSUMER GUIDE

Alcoholic Beverages

Alcoholic beverages must be certified to be used for Passover. There are numerous issues involving what the alcohol is made from, the equipment it is produced in, and the fermentation process itself. We encourage all kosher consumers to find alcoholic beverages with reliable certification.

Baby Rice Cereals

Rice is kitniyot, but is permitted for consumption by infants. However, manufactured baby rice cereals can contain actual chametz.

Here is a recipe to prepare rice cereal at home:

1. 1/4 cup rice powder (brown or white [not enriched] rice ground in blender, food processor, or coffee grinder).
2. 1 cup water.
3. Bring liquid to boil in saucepan. Add the rice powder while stirring constantly.
4. Simmer covered for 10 minutes, mix in formula or breast milk and fruits if desired.
5. Serve warm.

Bottled Water

All unflavored bottled water is kosher for Passover, even without any kosher supervision.

Brown Sugar

Brown sugar often shares tanks with items that contain chametz and therefore requires special Passover certification.

Canola Oil

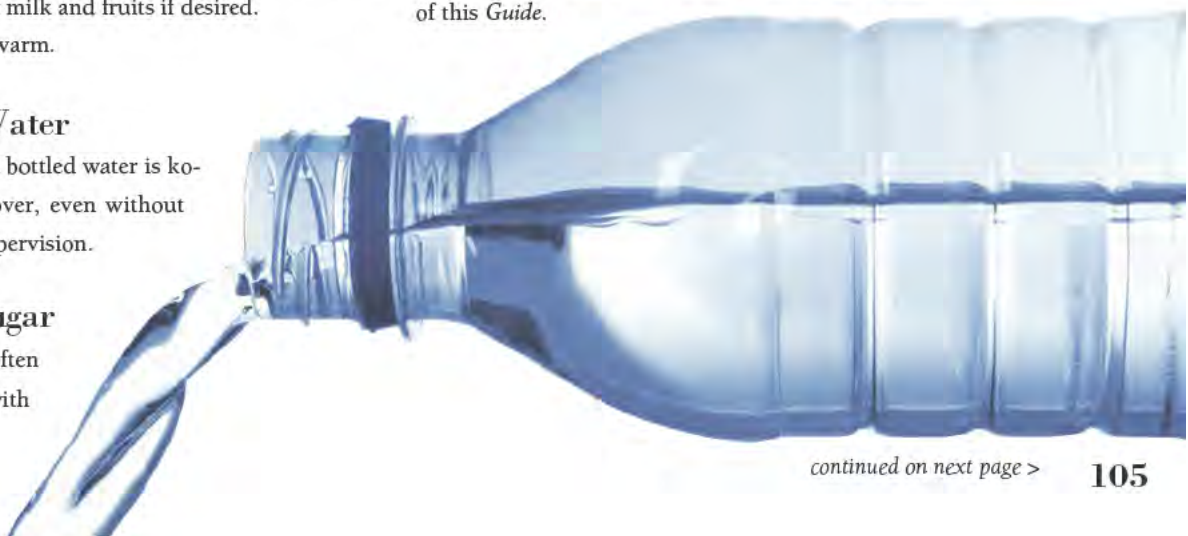

Canola oil, which is a form of rapeseed oil, should be considered kitniyot.

Coffee

REGULAR GROUND COFFEE: All regular ground coffees are acceptable for Passover use when bearing an ®.

DECAFFEINATED COFFEE: Coffee is often decaffeinated by means of ethyl acetate, which is derived from either kitniyot or chametz. Therefore, decaffeinated coffees are not acceptable for Passover unless specifically listed in the white or gray pages of this Guide.

INSTANT COFFEE: Instant coffees often contain maltodextrin, which is derived from either corn (kitniyot) or wheat (chametz). Therefore, all instant coffees require special Passover certification unless explicitly mentioned in the white or gray pages of this Guide.

Dairy Foods

Dairy foods are particularly kosher-sensitive due to the prevalence of enzymes, stabilizers, flavors and vitamins which are made from chametz and kitniyot and are present in most dairy products. Although plain whole, low-fat and skim milk (fresh—not long shelf-life) may be purchased before Passover without special certification, it is proper not to purchase it during Passover unless reliably certified for Passover. All other dairy products require reliable Passover certification regardless of when they are purchased.

Dried Fruits

Dried fruits are usually treated with oils derived from kitniyot and therefore require Passover certification.

Extra Virgin Olive Oil

All cold-pressed extra virgin olive oils are Kosher for Passover, even without special supervision. All other oils (including pure olive oil) require a reliable kosher certification.

Frozen Fish

Due to the frequent application of glazes to raw fish, it should be purchased only with reliable kosher supervision.

Frozen Fruits and Vegetables

Frozen vegetables are washed in water that often contains anti-foaming agents, which are not appropriate for Passover use. Moreover, some companies also pack pasta products on shared packing machinery. Therefore, frozen vegetables require Passover certification.

However, these issues are not a concern at facilities that process frozen fruit, which does not require Passover certification.

Gluten Allergies

Regretfully, because one can only perform the mitzvah of eating matzot at the Seder with a matzah that is made from one of the five varieties of grain (barley, wheat, rye, oats, and spelt), eating matzot using any of the other flours that are gluten free would still not enable one to fulfill the mitzvah.

Some people with the gluten allergy use either oat matzah or spelt matzah. While not completely gluten-free, oat matzah is especially soluble and easy to digest. Those with this allergy should discuss the matter with their allergist and Rabbi.

Lakewood Matzoh Bakery has both hand and machine matzah shmurah, baked under GFCO (Gluten Free Certification Organization) supervision. This matzah is not OU-certified.

To place an order, contact: Lakewood Matzoh Bakery, 501 Prospect Street, Uit 104B, Lakewood, NJ 08701. Tel: 732.364.8757. Fax: 732.364.4250. email: sales@lakewoodmatzoh.com. Website: lakewood-matzoh.com.

As always, if the performance of a mitzvah such as eating matzah at the Seder would cause a life-threatening allergic reaction, clearly the mitzvah should not be performed. If the allergic reaction, while severe, would not be life-threatening, ask your Rabbi.

Lactose Intolerance

Lactaid production is likely to involve chametz. This renders chewable lactaid tablets problematic. However, our Rabbinical authorities have decided that lactaid milk is permissible if purchased before Passover since any chametz contained within Lactaid milk would be nullified (batel).

Lactaid non-chewable tablets are more complicated. Many Rabbis permit non-chewable vitamins and supplements without regard to their kosher status. According to such opinions, one may take these tablets just like any other non-chewable pill. Other Rabbinical authorities believe that vitamins and supplements are akin to food even when swallowed. According to this opinion one may take the lactaid tablet when wrapped, for example, in tissue paper. However, one who is unable to do that may swallow the tablet without wrapping it, and rely on the lenient authorities, since milk is such an important health need. Ask your Rabbi for guidance.

Lemon Juice

Lemon juice may be processed on the same equipment as products that contain chametz and kitniyot. Therefore, only those brands listed in the gray pages of this Guide may be used.

Meat and Poultry

All kosher certified raw unprocessed meat and poultry that contain no other ingredients do not require special Passover certification and therefore may be used for Passover.

Nuts

Raw nuts in their shell do not require Passover certification. Shelled nuts that list BHA or BHT (preservatives) in the ingredients require special Passover certification as they are sprayed on the nuts using corn derivatives (kitniyot).

Peanuts

There are various customs regarding the use of peanuts and peanut products. Ask your Rabbi if you are unsure. The OU does not certify peanut products for Passover.

Quinoa

There is a difference of opinion among Rabbinic decisors (machloket ha-poskim) as to whether quinoa is considered kitniyot. Ask your Rabbi for his guidance.

Additionally, while quinoa is not one of the five grains that can create chametz (wheat, oat, barley, spelt and rye), and quinoa is not grown in the same vicinity as the grains mentioned above, the processing of quinoa is sometimes done at the same location where they process wheat and wheat flour. It is highly doubtful that the mills are effectively cleaned between grains. The concern of wheat flour or particles finding their way into the quinoa flour would be a serious one.

Salt

Salt that is iodized by means of a corn derivative is kitniyot and therefore iodized salt requires Passover certification. Un-iodized salt does not require Passover certification, nor does sea salt.

Soy Milk

Anyone for whom it is necessary to consume kitniyot may drink these products.

However, because we are unable to verify the kosher for Passover status of the equipment on which they are produced, we recommend purchasing these items before Passover, at which point any traces of chametz would be batel (nullified).

Spices

Ground spices require Passover certification as they can be processed on equipment that contains chametz and can also be adulterated with kitniyot or chametz.

Splenda

While the OU does certify Splenda for year-round use, Splenda is not certified Kosher for Passover as it contains kitniyot.

There is an industrial kosher for Passover Splenda, but it is not available for consumers.

Wine

Please note that not all  kosher wines are certified for Passover use. Some wines, , are made with flavorings and colorings to improve the bouquet and the color. Some of these wines do contain kitniyot, and therefore are not marked for Passover use. But the vast majority of  certified wines are ^P, and do not contain chametz or kitniyot flavors or sweeteners.

Please be sure to check wine labels carefully before purchasing.

The William Randolph Hearst Burn Center at NewYork-Presbyterian/Weill Cornell Medical Center, the FDNY Foundation, and the New York Firefighters Burn Center Foundation wish you much joy and health during Passover and in the year to come.

The activity and excitement of getting ready for and celebrating the holidays tend to make people less careful when they should be more cautious. During these times, there is more hot food, hot water, and candle use in the house. Often there are guests in the home, including children. Dr. Roger Yurt, Director, of the William Randolph Hearst Burn Center at NewYork-Presbyterian/Weill Cornell Medical Center, the FDNY Foundation, and the New York Firefighters Burn Center Foundation urge you to take care to prevent burn injuries all of the time, and offer these special safety tips for the holiday season:

When searching for and burning Chametz:

- Keep the candle away from all flammable objects, especially curtains, sofas, clothing, and tablecloths.
- Supervise young children and keep them at least 4 feet from open flames. Do not allow young children to hold the candle.

Lighting, Blessing, and Using Candles:

PLACE CANDLES:

- In sturdy holders or other fire-safe containers
- On a solid surface
- Out of the reach of children and pets
- At least 4 feet from curtains, bedding, paper, chemicals, and aerosol sprays
- Wear tight fitting, long sleeved attire when near the open flame.
- Keep long hair tied back and away from lit candles.
- Never leave burning candles unattended. Use candles that burn long enough to fulfill the mitzvah but are short enough to be able to burn themselves out before leaving the home or going to bed.
- Store matches and lighters out of the reach of children.

When preparing for the Seder:

- Create a 3-foot zone of safety around the stove and anywhere that hot food or water may be warming to prevent children from coming too close to the stove or other kitchen appliances that contain hot food or water.
- Turn pot handles inward when cooking on the stove
- Cook on the back burners.
- Allow hot food and drinks to cool before carrying, serving, eating, or drinking.
- Avoid using tablecloths or placemats that can easily be pulled by young children.
- Keep the stove top clear of paper, towels, and anything else that can burn.
- When frying, use a pot lid or splash guard to prevent grease splatter.

Sefirat Ha'Omer

Sefirah is the counting of seven complete weeks from the second evening of Passover until Shavuot. The count, which takes place after nightfall for the following day, is preceded by the blessing only if done in the evening and no days have been missed in the count.

NOTE: if you forget to count at night, you may count all of the next day – but without a blessing. You may resume counting the next evening with a blessing.

Visit www.ou.org to receive an email each day, reminding you which day of the sefirah to count that evening. Emails are electronically pre-programmed to go out on each of the 49 days of the sefirah.

Why did the Chofetz Chaim & R' Chaim Ozer Grodzinsky start EZRAS TORAH?

TO SAVE TALMIDEI CHOCHOMIM FROM THE PAIN AND SHAME OF POVERTY

In an ideal world, those who devote their lives to Torah would be recognized as the spiritual heroes that they are. Support Ezras Torah's Tzedakah Programs and make that ideal a reality.

In Eretz Yisrael today, Ezras Torah provides Housing, Emergency Medical Funds, Wedding Orphan Assistance, Yom Tov Grants and Special Need's Grants and Loans.

Make a life of Torah devotion and commitment an everlasting edifice that will bring us the Rabbonim, Dayanim and Leaders of tomorrow!

STAND UP FOR TORAH!
